Have you nominated your beneficiaries?

We all like to have control over our finances for when we're around to enjoy them, but what happens to your retirement savings when you're no longer here?

It's not something we like to talk about, but if you have any retirement savings left when you pass away, the full value of your pension account may be used to provide a cash sum to your beneficiaries.

Nominating your beneficiaries will give you peace of mind that your retirement savings will be taken care of and your wishes will be fulfilled.

Nominating beneficiaries is easy to do

You can nominate beneficiaries online in Retiready, your online account, or by completing a Nomination of beneficiaries form. Sign in to your Retiready account, select Your profile and About you to find out how to do this.
