Better connected with the Origo Integration Hub

We understand efficient, streamlined, intuitive back-office capabilities are vital to your business. That’s why we work closely with leading suppliers to integrate our platforms – Aegon Retirement Choices and the Aegon Platform.

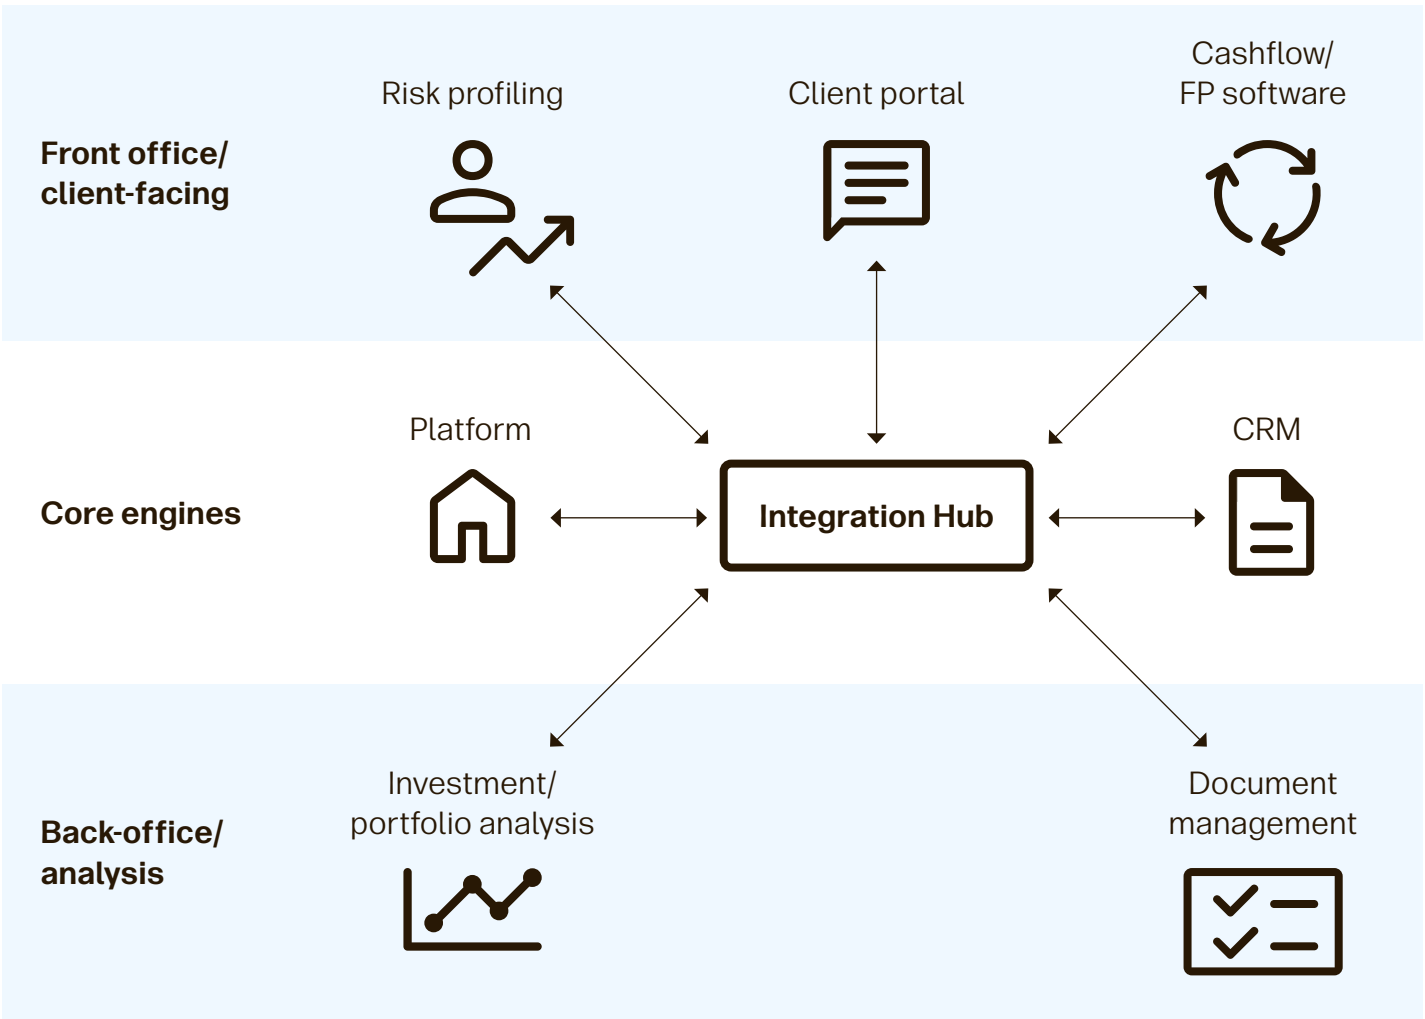

In 2020, we joined the Origo Integration Hub which means our platforms can now share data with any system that also connects to the Integration Hub for the same services, or with an adviser firm directly if they’ve joined too.

Who are Origo?

Origo are a leading FinTech company based in Edinburgh and were established in 1989. Origo are dedicated to connecting the financial services marketplace for the benefit of everyone. Origo collaborates with the Government and other industry bodies, as well as product providers, platforms, advisers, portals and software suppliers to find new ways to reduce costs and make processes more efficient.

What’s a hub model?

A hub model sits between an adviser firm’s back-office system and platform or product provider. They help simplify and streamline how systems work together and they eliminate the complex point-to-point integrations which are sometimes expensive. Here’s an example:

- Bulk remuneration (weekly)
- Account opening (supporting new business, top up and switch)

Aegon Retirement Choices:
