Please read this document carefully before completing an order with us.

This Order execution policy customer summary is effective from 1 March 2025.

This document provides a summary of the Aegon UK retail Order execution policy. The document is designed to provide customers with a general understanding of Aegon UK's typical dealing arrangements. It explains how we meet our regulatory obligation to take all sufficient steps to obtain the best possible result for our customers, taking into account relevant execution factors, or when submitting orders to others for execution, otherwise known as 'best execution'.

For more detailed information please refer to our retail Order execution policy in conjunction with the relevant terms and conditions, which govern the processes and take precedence and, which are available through our web service, from your intermediaries or by contacting the relevant customer services team.

If your personal circumstances mean you need any additional support, or if you'd like a large print, braille or audio version of this document, please go to aegon.co.uk/additionalsupport, or call the relevant number below (call charges will vary).

Not all financial instruments and associated dealing arrangements apply to all customers. Please refer to the relevant product terms and conditions or policy documents to find out which financial instruments and dealing arrangements are available to you.

Customer classification

For the purposes of achieving 'best execution', or getting the best possible result for customers when carrying out trades, Aegon UK treats all customers as retail. This means for 'best execution' we consider the price and costs of the investment to be the most important factors for obtaining the best possible outcome, the 'total consideration'.

Execution venues – listed securities

Aegon UK will submit all listed security orders to our retail service provider (Winterflood). All orders will only be settled in the pounds sterling (GBP) currency. However, we reserve the right to increase the number of currencies at any time.

Aegon UK does not receive any remuneration, discount or non-monetary benefit from using Winterflood as our retail service provider (RSP). Winterflood is a market maker in nearly all LSE listed securities and is also connected to a wide range of market makers and liquidity providers.

Further details on our RSP can be found at www.winterfloodbusinessservices.com

Fund manager trading arrangements for collectives (undertakings for collective investment in transferable securities (UCITS)/non-UCITS retail schemes (NURS) funds)

All orders for collectives funds will be passed to the relevant fund manager, the fund manager is best placed to provide a competitive market price and the level of units needed to complete an order.

Fund manager trading arrangements for insured funds

All orders for insured funds will be passed to the relevant fund manager, the fund manager is best placed to provide a competitive market price and the level of units needed to complete an order.

Execution factors

When we place an order, execution outcomes will only be measured in terms of the 'total consideration' (price and costs) however there are other factors that require consideration:

- efficiency of transmission and execution (including method of transaction);
- the nature of the order;
- the likelihood of successful execution and settlement, and
- any other relevant consideration to the execution of the order.

Types of financial instrument

The dealing processes vary depending on the type of asset being traded and you should always refer to the product terms and conditions or policy documents to see which financial instruments are available to you. A summary of the relevant information for each asset type is provided below:

Collective funds

Orders for these asset types are combined for the same security and same method to form one large order, then submitted to the fund manager to execute. When the order has settled, the order is separated and allocated in line with the original customer orders.

Exchange traded funds

Orders for these asset types are combined for the same security and same method to form one large order, then submitted to our RSP to execute. When the order has settled, the order is separated and allocated in line with the original customer orders. Minimum trade orders apply to these funds.

Investment trusts and UK equities

Orders for these asset types will be submitted to the RSP to execute the order.

Insured funds

Orders for these asset types are combined for the same security and same method to form one large order, then submitted to the fund manager to execute. When the order has settled, the order is separated and allocated in line with the original customer orders.

Reception and transmission

Aegon UK uses automated order management systems for dealing. Order instructions should be placed via this system and once completed are booked to customer accounts.

Costs and charges

It is important that customers take into account any internal costs, and any external costs including fees, taxes, clearing and settlement costs, exit and entry costs, dilution levies or any other costs passed on to the customer by intermediaries participating in a transaction. Customers should refer to our charges guide and illustrations for the product or products their assets are invested in and the asset fund manager documentation before making a decision to place an order.

Monitoring and review of arrangements

Aegon UK actively monitors and reviews the venue and executions achieved by Winterflood on behalf of our customers. This on-going monitoring activity allows us to identify and where appropriate, take corrective action to improve the quality of the execution service provided.

Aegon UK reviews the Order execution policy at least annually, or at any other time when there's a material change to the arrangements or procedures covered by the policy. We'll let you know of any material changes to this policy by publishing an updated version on our website or by providing an updated version if requested.

Consent

Aegon UK is required to ensure that a customer has received the Aegon UK retail Order execution policy prior to trading. Customers will be deemed to have confirmed receipt, read and accepted the terms of this document when accepting Aegon UK's terms and conditions or submitting an instruction to purchase or sell (order).
